Genius Explained

Genius Explained by Michael Howe is an attempted refutation of commonly held beliefs about the origins of what our society refers to as "genius" by studying the lives of eminent individuals such as Mozart, Darwin, Newton, George Stevenson, George Eliot, The Bronte sisters, Faraday, Einstein, William Sidis, Norbert Weiner, John Stuart Mill, and many others.

Genius Explained by Michael J.A. Howe - Goodreads

Howe's thesis in Genius Explained is simple: genius is the product of environment, personality, and sheer hard work, not a mysterious property that can't be analysed. "I am not convinced that there is anything about the lives and achievements of geniuses that is in principle any less amenable to explanation than the lives and achievements of other people. ...
